

Address Canvassing Census Test

Preparing for the 2020 Census

Address Canvassing Census Test

Your Community Is Counting on You!

Every 10 years, a census of the U.S. population is conducted to determine how federal funds are spent in your community for roads, parks, and other public services. The census also determines your representation in government. In advance of the 2020 census, we perform several test censuses.

An Address Canvassing Test job offers more than a paycheck. In addition to good pay, you will have flexible hours, paid training, and the chance to work independently in your own community. You will also earn a place in history while giving back to your community!

Address Canvassing Census Test Positions Are Temporary.

Conducting the test census is an important undertaking and it requires us to fill a wide variety of positions. Most positions require a valid driver's license and use of a vehicle.

What Do the Jobs Pay?

Census jobs offer good pay. Also, census field representatives are reimbursed for authorized work-related expenses, such as mileage.

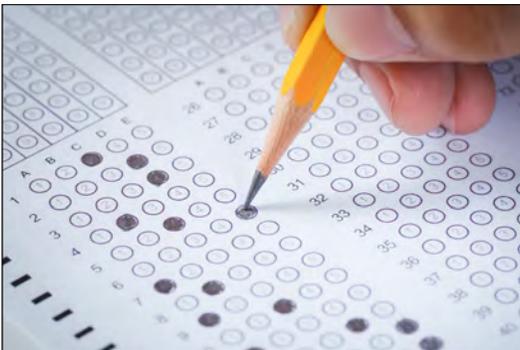

About the employment test...

The employment test consists of 28 multiple-choice questions designed to measure the skills and abilities required to perform a variety of census jobs, such as:

- Clerical skills
- Reading skills
- Number skills
- Interpreting information and evaluating alternatives
- Organizational skills

In some areas, the test may be given in Spanish, upon request. These applicants must also take and pass an English proficiency test.

You will have 30 minutes to complete the test. You may retake the test on a different day if you would like to improve your score.

What Identification Do I Need?

You must bring a government or tribal picture ID to the testing session. Additional documentation may be requested.

What Is the Work Schedule?

Census taker schedules typically include from 20 to 40 hours of work per week.

Will I Be Hired?

Due to the nature of census work, a large number of people apply and take the employment test. However, not everyone who is qualified will be hired. Job offers depend on the availability of work within each community, test scores, and other qualifications. Only applicants who are being considered for a census job will be called.

You May Qualify If...

- You are a U.S. citizen.
- You are at least 18 years old.
- You have a valid Social Security number.
- You take a written test of basic skills.
- You have a valid driver's license.
- You pass a background check.
- You commit to completing training. You will be paid for this training at a training pay rate.
- You have a personal e-mail address.

Note: Many of these jobs require you to have access to a computer with Internet and an e-mail account to complete training. If you need assistance in creating a personal e-mail account, call 1-866-593-6154
