REQUEST FOR PROPOSAL

Introduction/Statement of Intent

The Department of Labor has awarded the St. Louis Agency on Training and Employment (SLATE) a grant under the Youth Build Program. A portion of these funds are specifically designed to support employment, training and wraparound supportive services to eligible youth residing in the local jurisdiction. The Workforce Investment Board of St. Louis City/SLATE has the task of generating awareness about the availability of these funds and conducting a fair and objective process for selecting vendors to provide workforce development services to juvenile offenders residing in Saint Louis City.

The Workforce Investment Board of St. Louis City/SLATE supports this directive and aims to build a comprehensive youth system that will promote the opportunities for Saint Louis' youth to acquire the necessary life skills, education and work experience to foster productive careers and become responsible family members and citizens.

The overall goals for SLATE's youth services funded by the Department of Labor – Youth Build are to assist economically disadvantaged youth (ages 16-24) to attain the education and/or skills needed to create employment options and reintegrate into the St. Louis City community. Services must be designed and delivered so that they focus on career development, job placement and educational accomplishment for our youth in the community.

- Programs must provide services and education relevant to the job market with a focus on the following industries: construction and manufacturing industries
- Programs should provide a pathway to post-secondary educational opportunities;
- Programs must emphasize long-term outcomes; and
- Programs must provide a connection between academic and occupational learning,

Principles that will guide the selection of service providers are:

- .. Focusing on youth development and prevention of youth risk behaviors;
- .. Building on and strengthening partnerships with existing community assets such as workforce development agencies, employers, community-based organizations, schools, faith-based organizations, etc;
- .. Building on and strengthening intergenerational relationships and collaborations among key stakeholders. (i.e. parents, school faculty, health care providers, ministers, youth practitioners, postsecondary institutions, etc.);
- .. The ability to match individual youth participants with appropriate adult volunteer mentors;
- .. Supporting a holistic approach to serving youth encompassing mental, physical, social and spiritual development;

- .. Supporting the ability of teen parents to meet the needs of their children;
- .. Emphasizing long-term outcomes and sustained support for youth with significant barriers to employment; and
- .. Having the ability to leverage resources to support the proposed initiative.

Additionally, the St. Louis WIB/SLATE will ensure its youth system includes the following requirements of the Workforce Investment Act (WIA):

- .. A focus on intensive year-round programs;
- .. A focus on serving the neediest youth;
- .. Meeting the demands of business;
- .. An emphasis on goal setting and long-term outcomes;
- .. An increased focus on academic achievement aligned with state education requirements and post-secondary readiness;
- .. Delivery specific service elements; and
- .. Twelve-month post- program follow-up for all youth.

Grants will be awarded to service providers that demonstrate the ability to develop and implement strategies that will result in the following outcomes:

- .. Youth are academically successful (demonstrated increase in literacy and numeracy proficiency);
- .. Youth obtain employment;
- .. Youth have post placement job retention;
- .. Youth are prepared to live independently and are economically self-sufficient;
- .. Youth have progressive increases in earned income; and
- .. Youth acquire an academic and/or occupational specific degree or certificate.

The WIB/SLATE will accept proposals for services under the Youth Reentry Program with a planned period of total performance between February 1, 2014 and September 30, 2017. The youth services proposed by respondents to this RFP must be comprehensive, available year-round, and structured to meet youth interests and needs for employment information, career guidance and vocational training. The WIB/SLATE will accept proposals no later than 5:00 PM, January 12, 2015.

Potential bidders are strongly encouraged to carefully read the entire RFP and all attachments. All responses will be evaluated by reviewers against the criteria identified in this RFP. Final review and approval by the Workforce Investment Board and the City of St. Louis/SLATE is necessary for those proposals that pass the reviewer stage. The St. Louis Youth Advisory Council will also play a part in the review process. The WIB and the City of St. Louis/SLATE will perform continuous monitoring and oversight of contracted providers, and the WIB and the City of St. Louis/SLATE will determine performance measures, subsequent eligibility, and require corrective action when needed to ensure continuous improvement of eligible providers of services. Exclusive of attachments, the entire proposal may not be more than 20 pages.

Methodology and Workplan

(a) Education and Occupational Skills Training:

The design for the YouthBuild-Northside Regeneration project charts a clear path for every participant, from recruitment, to preparation and secondary achievement, and on to post-secondary education. The proposed project will create a pipeline that not only leads to jobs, but to well-paying careers in construction fields, part of a monumental revival of North St. Louis. Young men and women will obtain the knowledge, skills and ability needed to fully and proudly participate in a decades-long, multi-phase revival of an urban core, transforming it into an ideal place to reside, raise a family, or open a business. In addition, youth participants will be dually enrolled in the WIA youth program and have access to all of the workshops and services at the SLATE America's Job Center. There are three critical components of this dynamic Youth Build program model: 1) intensive, wrap around holistic case management for each youth throughout the program, 2) monetary incentives in the form of worksite stipends, and 3), the high level occupational training and a clear path to employment with the help of contractors, unions and other partners.

Ranken Technical College's Building and Construction Trades faculty will conduct a Preparatory Academy and Post-Secondary Training and have, on the average, at least five years of teaching experience and ten years of practical work experience. All of the College's Technical Programs, administration and faculty rely on input from their advisory committees, drawn from both industry and graduates for feedback on curriculum and skills sets tied to industry needs.

Ranken post-secondary carpentry instructors will advise YouthBuild site supervisors.

YouthBuild participants may be able to obtain advanced placement and post-secondary educational credit and advanced standing (6 hours of college credit) during their YouthBuild experience if they meet the necessary qualifications.

Participants will receive both classroom and work based instruction. The preparatory academy will be located at a convenient, designated facility in the NorthSide geographical area. Classroom space will be allocated to provide not only GED instruction but also remediation in the subjects of mathematics, science, reading comprehension, and writing skills for YouthBuild participants. Instruction in the following subjects will take place here: Construction Theory and Terminology Fundamentals, Leadership Development, Job/college readiness skills, Study Skills, Construction training, OSHA training, Public Speaking, Group Discussion and Problem Solving, with presentations by representatives from the construction industry. Each cohort will participate in a complete construction build (foundation to finishing) of 5 residential units to gain experience in all phases of constructions. All training will be documented for each student and tests/grades will be given for mastery of skills and performance in construction, plumbing and residential electricity. Space and resources will be provided for matching participants to volunteer industry mentors; all participants will also be introduced to the principles of starting, owning and operating a small business, laying another possible foundation for future success as the NorthSide rebuilds.

Case Management Ratio/Participant Advocacy: The youth ages 16-21 will be dually enrolled in the WIA youth program; three dedicated case managers will be located at SLATE's nearby America's Job Center. The case managers will work alongside the instructors, mentors, school counselors, social services case manager, and family to be their best advocate. The case manager to participant ratio will remain low at 1 case manager per approximately 25 youth, in order to effectively address the multiple barriers to employment and generate the most successful outcomes. Through a close relationship with all the Youth Build partners, case managers will make sure all program elements are working in the best interest of the youth. As SLATE has seen, the case manager's authentic trusting relationship will facilitate a unique strong bond with the youth and their family. The advocacy element will be ongoing throughout the program in order to promote resiliency, physical safety, and emotional stability. These are strong traits that will help the youth complete the program and be successful on the job.

The case manager will document the youth's journey through the program. There will be an initial objective assessment given at the beginning of the program to determine the overall needs of each youth. Each program participant will help build an individual service strategy (ISS) in coordination with the occupational training construction component. The case managers will also develop an Individual Career Plan (ICP). This plan will help youth integrate personal goals with career development, post secondary training, and employment.

Each ISS will include employment goals, aptitude levels, educational outcomes, appropriate achievement and behavioral objectives, the appropriate combination of services for the participants, all of the referral agencies, and all of the partnering agencies. A living document, it can change as youth interests, needs, living conditions, and behaviors change.

Participant Access to Counseling: Mental health counseling and drug and alcohol counseling will be essential program elements. When youth are free of depression, anxiety, excessive stress and worry, addictions, and other psychological problems, they are more able to concentrate on their own well-being. Mental health strengthens will support their ability to make constructive life choices and maintain well-being. SLATE has established relationships with mental health agencies will have the highest recognized credential, CARF certification. Preferred Family, a community partner, and other area agencies will deliver needed no-cost mental health services. Ultimately, this attention to overall health and stress reduction will help the participants gain employment, learn occupational skills in the construction industry, make academic advances and increase their likelihood of prosperity. Mental health is often a large part of this process.

Evidence-based Mentoring Strategy: The Youth Build’s mentoring component includes six evidence-based standards addressing mentor and mentee recruitment; screening; training; matching; monitoring and support; and closure. Each standard offers enhancements that program staff can incorporate, based on the experience of outstanding mentoring practitioners across the country. Mentorship comprises a number of supervised, related activities. After the youth successfully completes the behavioral modification component, the program structure infuses leadership development opportunities that encourage responsibility, employability, and other positive social behaviors. Some activities will be peer-centered, including organizational and team leadership training. Finally, this phase introduces training in decision-making, citizenship training, life skills training such as parenting, work behavior training, and financial literacy.

An identified best practice used by many organizations is the shared vision approach to operate in the best interest of the youth. Extensive staff training is an important element of this program; Youth Build staff will be familiarized with this approach prior to student enrollment into the program. The staff will receive ongoing professional development and support - the topics below are an example of training modules but do not represent the complete and comprehensive list of the training: Gay, lesbian, bisexual, and transgender community; working with at-risk youth, understand Labor Market Index, tackling the soft skills, integrating youth on the youth council, developing youth into leaders, mentoring 101, and basic comprehensive case management.

Industry Related Educational Activities

Academic training will facilitate the development of math, reading, writing, and leadership/character building skills in a conceptual framework that guides students toward passing the GED examination if applicable, or that builds the foundations needed for college.

Students must pass competency tests and will be graded on their satisfactory progress, in line with Ranken Technical College's grading rubrics. As a part of their curriculum, Ranken has definitive testing to determine if students have mastered basic skills.

Ranken Technical College will apply a work based learning model to the curriculum to ensure success for YouthBuild participants. These activities will benefit participants by applying classroom learning, exposing participants to adult role models, helping them gain understanding of the workplace/expectations and state-of-the-art practices and technology. Group classroom instruction for participants will also include sessions on 1) Rafters, Roofs, Truss and Concrete Form; 2) Correct usage of power tools and stationary machinery; 3) Blueprints and codes; 4) Lumber selection; 5) Basic plumbing and electric theory; 6) Sustainable and Green Energy. YouthBuild participants enrolling in Ranken Technical College after the program is complete will be able to select from numerous career pathways available through the College's Construction Division, offering credentials and/or degrees in such fields as Carpentry and Building Technology, Electrical Systems Design, HVAC/Refrigeration, Fabrication and Welding, and Plumbing/Pipefitting.

All participants will also receive a credential in Workforce – Work Zone Technician, which required minimal classroom time and qualifies them for an industry recognized credential to direct traffic with signal flags around work zones. Ranken will award advanced standing in Associate of Technology or Certification programs to YouthBuild participants, and additional construction experience is provided through their Community Development Corporation's construction projects.

Throughout the Preparatory Academy, every effort will be made to link the development of all these skills into the construction theory and hands on portion of the curriculum. Reading and writing skills will be linked to construction terminology, mathematics skills linked to the measurements and geometry required on the actual construction worksite. Assignments will require that students reflect on their behavior, their community, their personal goals and aspirations, and future direction. YouthBuild participants will be required to attend these sessions two days per week in addition to studying. The ABE/GED model will be employed. GED instructors will be required to be certified by the Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education. Participants will take the GED test at an approved official testing site, whether at SLATE, a university or community college.

OSHA rules and regulations for certification are likewise a central part of the learning experience at both Ranken Tech and CCC. Both institutions have appropriate faculty, space, and equipment to ensure OSHA requirements are met. All participants will be awarded OSHA 10 certification.

Finally, a positive education outcome is always a priority for this youth population. The stipends described in the budget narrative will assist participants in both the preparatory and worksite phases. Research has shown that the use of monetary incentives is one of the best ways to answer immediate needs and keep the youth actively participating in the program. The ICP and ISS will be updated regularly to reflect assessment results, career goals, employment options, and relevant skills.

(b) Post-Program Placement and Follow-Up Services:

The post-program transition process is designed to be both thorough and practical through holistic case management services. Youth will have the opportunity to move through several career tracks; this decision will be facilitated by the YouthBuild case managers. It is likely that some youth will go on into a Registered Apprenticeship, or a job; others will pursue college, or a short-term training program. Post-program follow up services will include but are not limited to transportation assistance, job development, job readiness training, comprehensive counseling and guidance, leadership development, and financial literacy sessions. The Case

Manager will be tasked with comprehensive, personal contact with each participant, allowing for flexibility and offers room in case a youth wants to change career paths or “backslides.”

SLATE is able to offer no-cost WorkKeys Testing and CHOICES career planning sessions to all participants. Ranken has the ability to provide scholarships to youth who are planning to stay in construction or a construction related field. SLATE can provide direct support and access to an extensive network of supportive service providers, including health clinics, mental health counseling, family planning, housing transition, and career mentors. SLATE will offer this comprehensive set of follow up services once the youth has completed training.

As described above, the YouthBuild - NorthSide Regeneration is partnering directly with Ranken Technical College, an institution with extensive experience helping troubled, impoverished, and other non-traditional students succeed by striving to instill study habits, discipline and a work ethic throughout the campus. SLATE staff also has extensive experience connecting GED students to post-secondary learning, and operates a staffed GED Resource Lab to ensure this transition is a smooth one.

Other Post Program Career Tracks: SLATE contracts a Business Trades Liaison specifically to facilitate positive relationships between jobseekers, especially youth, and the many apprenticeship opportunities in and around St. Louis City. It is anticipated that all YouthBuild participants interested in these opportunities will be referred to the Liaison. His extensive knowledge will help each participant decide on the best/fastest-growing career options and understand the exact requirements; when this process concludes the Liaison will arrange introductions and pre- apprenticeship. The Business Trades Liaison helps promote St. Louis City’s workforce diversity ordinance and received regional/state-wide attention by recruiting women into the previously male-dominated roofing trade. Registered apprenticeship opportunities at SLATE closely follow the guidelines set by PRIDE of St. Louis, Inc.

representing labor and management in 15 different AFL-CIO building trades. SLATE is thus able to facilitate apprenticeship in practically any trade, but areas of emphasis / unions that have recently hired our jobseekers include: Bricklayer's Local No. 1, IBEW Local No. 1, Floorlayers Union Local No. 1310, Plumbers & Pipefitters Local Union No. 562 and United Union of Roofers, Waterproofers & Allied Workers Local No. 2.

Car Loan Program Incentive: As part of its overall giveback to the community, St. Louis Community Credit Union is offering a special automobile financing (as well as refinancing for car repairs) through its Sure Rides Auto Loan program. Participants could be eligible for a loan within 30 days after starting a new job, an added benefit that will help youth overcome the barrier of transportation to worksites that are not in proximity to a bus line.

(c) Community Service Learning and Leadership Development

At Ranken Technical College, 10% of overall academic time will be devoted to a leadership development/soft skills component built into the YouthBuild program. Sessions will include study and time management, financial literacy, resume and interviewing, and CPR/AED training. Groups of students will also be engaged in team building activities, and will be required to perform at least 8 hours of community service activities during their enrollment in YouthBuild. Associated General Contractors has committed to allowing access their extensive membership database as a source for suitable mentors with backgrounds in construction.

Service Learning Commitment: Individual progress and overall interest of each participant determines length of time spent in service learning, which will have three components: volunteer service-learning, work-experience, and summer jobs. The service-learning focus is on soft skills, the work experience focus is on career exploration and SLATE's expertise in summer job placement will help transition participants into unsubsidized employment. All these activities develop leadership skills, positive work behaviors, teamwork, and a commitment to contribute positively to their community while also providing immediate, needed income.

Service Learning Examples: The service-learning component will incorporate peer-centered activities encouraging responsibility, work ethic, and other positive social behaviors. Youth will be able to explore different activities related to the construction industry and related fields. The projects will be centered on the youth's career and personal interest. However if none of the existing projects interest the youth, the case managers and Ranken will create a customized service-learning project specifically suited to a participant's interest, needs, and ability.

Vocational Skills in Service Learning: The three components of the service-learning phase support and increase youth's ability to learn skills that will increase their chances for gainful employment. Construction vocational skills will be integrated into the service-learning project by creating a training plan with each participant, case manager, and worksite supervisor that specifies the hard skills youth will learn while participating in the service-learning project. Worksite supervisors will teach measurable and quantifiable vocational skills; in conjunction with the case managers youth will be able to explore careers driven by real time labor market information provided by Associated General Contractors, the Missouri Economic Research and Information Center (MERIC), and other sources.

Leadership/Soft Skill Development: Leadership development opportunities are integrated throughout the entire program. From intake to completion, all the project partners will emphasize positive leadership, community, family and the workplace. In addition, youth are taught responsibility, financial literacy, and are given the opportunity to develop youth-led community projects. The Youth Council operated by the Workforce Investment Board is a part of the process and program; selected YouthBuild participants will be invited to sit on the Youth Council, present summaries, and actively participate in meetings.

Family and Peer Wrap Around Services: The Youth Build intake process will stress soft, life skills, and leadership skills needed to succeed. The program operators understand it is impossible to address all of the issues of the youth without addressing their family and community structure. Wherever possible, SLATE and its extensive partner network will assist parents to solve challenges such as chronic unemployment, parental guidance, obtaining a state high school diploma or equivalent, entering a training program, and other mental and emotional issues. Many studies have shown the powerful influence that peer pressure has with youth and their ability or inability to make good choices. The program will seek to build independent decision-making among participants and their peers.

Youth Performance Measures:

A typical program is 12-months of active case management and 12-months of follow up. (Reference DOL's Training and Guidance Letter NO. 17-05, Common Measures Policy)

1. Placement in Employment or Education: [Of those who are not in post-secondary education or employment (including the military at the date of participation, the Placement in Employment or Education measure takes the number of youth participants who are in employment (including military) or enrolled in post-secondary education and/or advanced training/occupational skills training in the first quarter after the exit quarter divided by the number of youth participants who exit during the quarter] – 85%.

The TABE test is the assessment used to determine literacy and numeracy gains.

The successful bidder must have all staff that work with WIA participants, files and related information complete a State of Missouri-approved Confidentiality Agreement before working with any confidential information, whether verbal or written.

The successful bidder must have the management capacity to administer a complicated Federal grant program and will be subject to timely completion of an extensive set of reporting requirements as developed by the City of St. Louis. These reports will be required as necessary to carry out reimbursements, monitoring and evaluation of the programs as mandated by federal regulation. Detailed reports will be expected on at least a monthly basis.

Agencies and organizations submitting a proposal to operate a youth program should be familiar with the basic requirements outlined in the regulations and should provide necessary staff support in their proposal to see that these requirements are met. The selected contractor(s) must fully comply with the requirements of the youth programs provided under the provisions of the Workforce Investment Act of 1998.

The various services provided must be based on the individual assessment of a participant's needs by performing the following:

Objective Assessment: This is an examination of the capabilities, needs and academic/vocational potential of a participant and is used to develop a service strategy and employment goal. Objective Assessment is an ongoing and client centered diagnostic evaluation of a participant's employment barriers taking into account the participant's family situation, work history, education, occupational skill interest, aptitudes and attitudes toward work, motivation, behavioral patterns affecting employment potential, financial resources and supportive services needs.

Individual Services Strategy (ISS)/Case management: This is a document that is developed as a result of an Objective Assessment. It is a plan that delineates a youth's individual goal, employment objectives and services needs. It is meant to be a "living" document inasmuch as it should be reviewed and revised to reflect the youth's progress and attainments as they move toward their goal. Generally, the ISS is written for a period of one year and is continually reviewed and revised throughout the period.

Funded programs will be responsible for recruitment and overall case management that include the various program elements described previously for each participant based on an individual assessment to in-school or out of school youth or both. All youth served (in-school and out-of-school) must be provided with a service plan that will lead to attainment of the youth performance measures detailed previously. Coordination of services with One Stop Partners will be integral to the successful delivery of services to youth.

Funded proposals should assist youth in identifying harmful risk behaviors that obstruct academic success and long-term career success, including alcohol, drugs, sex, tobacco and violence. Cost Limitations and General Information: Proposers should understand that costs must be reasonable and competitive. We will not pay for indirect costs. Required back-up documentation such as properly completed time cards, time sheets, travel reports, invoices, receipts, etc., must be maintained. Funds provided under WIA shall not be used to duplicate facilities or services available in the area from federal, state, or local sources. Proposers should make certain that in responding to this RFP that the appropriate application/budget fact sheet(s) are completed and that their narrative is responsive to the proposal format.

Review Criteria: All responses will be evaluated by reviewers against the criteria identified in this RFP. Final review and approval by the Workforce Investment Board and the City of St. Louis/SLATE is necessary for those proposals that pass the reviewer stage.

If the revised total is enough points for consideration for funding the bidder would be so informed in writing.

Reporting: Upon approval of any program or activity for funding, the agency or organization administering that program will be subject to an extensive set of fiscal and programmatic reporting requirements. All books, records, documents and papers of the contractor in regard to this program shall be retained by the contractor for a minimum period of three (3) years following submission of the final expenditure report, or until such time as any litigation, audit findings or other claims have been resolved and so certified by the City of St. Louis. Veterans Priority for Participants

The Jobs for Veterans Act (Public Law 107-288) requires grantees to provide priority of service for veterans and spouses of certain veterans for the receipt of employment, training, and placement services in any job training program directly funded, in whole or in part, by DOL. The regulations implementing this priority of service can be found at 20 CFR Part 1010. In circumstances where a grant recipient must choose between two qualified candidates for a service, one of whom is a veteran or eligible spouse, the veterans priority of service provisions require that the grant recipient give the veteran or eligible spouse priority of service by first providing him or her that service. To obtain priority of service, a veteran or spouse must meet the program's eligibility requirements. Grantees must comply with DOL guidance on veterans' priority. ETA's Training and Employment Guidance Letter (TEGL) No. 10-09 (issued November 10, 2009) provides guidance on implementing priority of service for veterans and eligible spouses in all qualified job training programs funded in whole or in part by DOL. TEGL No. 10-09 is available at http://wdr.doleta.gov/directives/corr_doc.cfm?DOCN=2816.
