2011 FAITH BASED PREPAREDNESS CONFERENCE “Preparing Our Faith Based Communities for Disasters: What and How Part I”

Please join us for the 2011 Faith Based Conference sponsored by the Heartland Center for Public Health Preparedness, Saint Louis University School of Public Health and the St. Louis Region Faith Based Partners.

The conference will provide essential information on emergency response and preparedness: faith communities developing personal and family plans; guiding them through the process of conducting functional needs assessments within their congregations, solidifying the roles and responsibilities they want to take on during emergency event, and offering additional training that will assist them in being prepared to respond during such an event.

When: The conference will be held June 16, 2011
Pre-registration and material pick-up will begin at 11:45 AM and with conference ending at 5:00 PM

Where: DuBourg Hall, Room 157 (Refectory Hall)
Saint Louis University
221 N. Grand
St. Louis, MO 63103

There is no registration fee to attend the conference. Lunch will be provided. Please watch for additional information about registration procedures for this conference.
